OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

When Ezra Timkin took the prize On corn, down at the county fair, Old Hiram Grouch screwed up his eyes An spit, an' said, with scornful air: "Now things have reached a pretty pass. When kids like you outdo their dads A-raisin' corn an' wheat an' grass, For prizes wasn't meant for lads. I'd be ashamed, to help me like! Must like you, I tried, too. An' when old Hiram hit the hike He left the lad a-feelin' blue. But Nathan Cheerful met the boy. An' shook his hand an' said, "By gum! This shore does fill my heart with joy. At raisin' corn an' wheat are some! I like to see you lads pull in. An' make us older fellers hump; If we expect a prize to win. It shore will keep us on the jump. Jest keep it up an' some fine day, At farmin' you will lead the crowd." An' when old Nathan turned away The boy was feelin' gay, an' proud. —Harry J. Williams in Farm Life.

This homely sentiment is of interest just now to the farmer boys of Rock county, who are competing for prizes in a corn contest, as well as showing the older generation how to keep the roads in repair.

"Old Hiram Grouch" is a familiar character and many bright, intelligent boys are acquainted with him. He consoles them by a story of early experiences and the hardships and privations which he suffered, when boy. They look at him and wonder how he ever arrived at man's estate. He is old enough to be a counsellor, and the long life which stretches back of him should make him a wise adviser, but if he is a grouch, he is neither, and the boy is not slow to discover his defects, usually lives in a house which has grown old with lack of paint and wears himself out with drudgery, because not permitted to enjoy the "new-fangled" things which help to relieve the burdens and make life easy.

The boy who develops in this sort of an atmosphere, is handicapped, and he realizes it. Ambition is stifled, and the word of encouragement is lacking. What was good enough twenty years ago ought to be good enough for him. There are too many homes of this kind, not only in the country, but in the towns and cities as well, and they are responsible to large extent for the failures, so common to young people in starting a career.

Science has done much during the past half century, to increase production and save labor, both in the field and shop, and while organized labor sometimes looks askance at the machine which performs the work of half a dozen men, the fact has long since been established, that industry soon adapts itself to changed conditions, and labor finds ready employment.

There was a time when the little patch of half cultivated corn, and the hand mill which prepared it for food, supplied the staff of life for the primitive home, and when the old flint-lock rifle kept the house in game. Happy days, no doubt, and pleasant to read about, in song and story.

Those were the days when every man could own a piece of land, who had ambition enough to occupy it. The pioneer days, when there was so little demand for the products of the soil, that but little cultivation was necessary.

But we are a part today of a nation one hundred million strong, and the demand for products of the soil and factory has kept pace with the development of the country.

The land which was worth from five to ten dollars an acre, fifty years ago, commands from one hundred and fifty to two hundred dollars an acre today, and the time has passed when it can be neglected, or when old time methods of farming can be applied.

The boys of the present generation are alive to the situation and the fathers can well afford to encourage them in every effort. The day of the "Grouch" is also passing, for the world is too busy to listen to him.

"Nathan Cheerful" is also a familiar character and many boys are favored with homes where the atmosphere is charged with good cheer, and where the acre of land, where the boy experiments with his corn crop, is the center of attraction.

It is fortunate for the boys of today that the schools of the land have come to realize that the practical things of life are of supreme importance, and that the common schools—in which Governor Phillips is so much interested—are the schools of the masses.

In many of the western states the country schools adapt themselves to agricultural studies, which are of special interest to the boys and girls on the farm, and as a result, farm life is made more attractive. The school and the home should work together to keep the boy and girl contented, on the farm. The great storehouse of nature is so far from being exhausted that it has simply been tapped, for scientific farming in America is in its infancy. The densely populated countries of the old world have long produced double the crop which we produce from the same acreage, for with them intensified farming is a necessity.

With our broad area of country, we have yet to realize the possibilities, which the soil contains, but the American boy is doing some thinking today along these lines, and he should be encouraged, not only to think, but to experiment.

Many a business firm has been saved from disaster, and redeemed from dry rot, by injecting a little new red blood, into its veins. The old men let go reluctantly, for the methods of a life time became fixed habits, and he has no notion that they can be improved, and especially by the boy with whom familiarity has sometimes bred contempt, yet the boy usually makes good when the old man gives him a chance.

An old merchant, who had been in business for forty years, was prostrated by lingering disease, a time ago. He was surprised to find that business was improving, under the management of his son, and agreed with a friend who suggested that all the boys there is to it. We load ourselves up with responsibilities, and attempt to carry all the load, while the boys are eager to help us. And we never know how much ability they possess unless we give it a chance to develop.

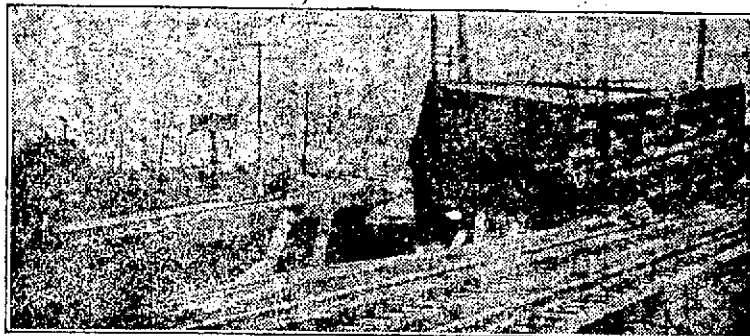

This boy on the farm, if at all in love with his work, is now an experiment, because good fortune has placed him in one of the great creative channels, where destiny is assured. He wastes no time in finding the niche to which he is best adapted, but is always a round peg in a round hole.

This is not true of the boys in towns and many of them fail because they feel obliged to accept the first position offered, which is usually routine work with but little promise for the future.

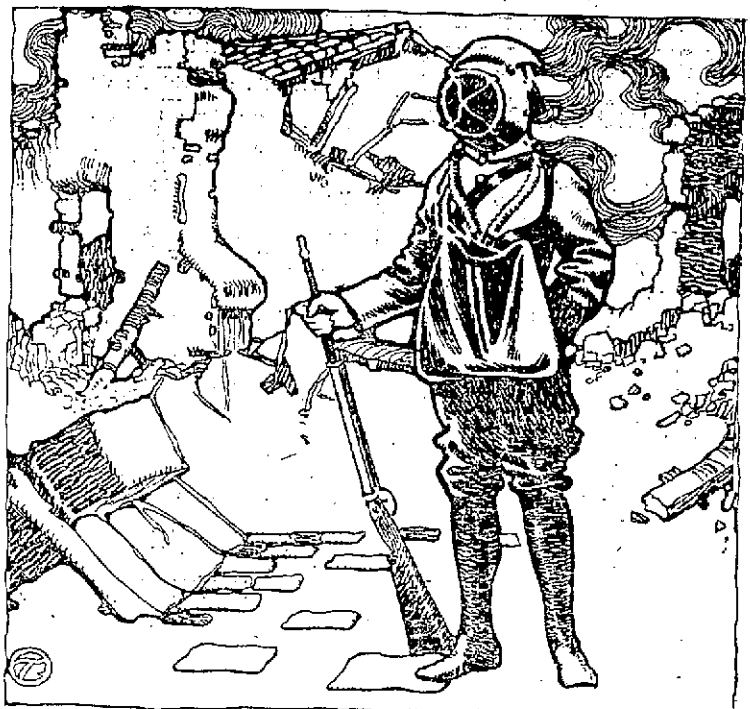

That every boy needs is friendly advice and wise counsel from some "Nathan Cheerful," and if the father is wise enough to fill the bill, the boy is fortunate. Give the boys a chance and help them to improve it, and the next generation will be a race of stalwarts.

Derailment at Trestle Bridge

That the derailment of two freight cars at the crossing of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and Chicago and Northwestern railroad station at the "cut-off" on North River street, did not cause more damage to the trestle is considered a mystery by railroad men. The automobile freight car crashed through the railing and was balanced dangerously near plunging to the street, twenty feet below. The car had been jacked to the embankment when the photograph was taken.

DUDLEY FIRE PROBED BY STATE OFFICIALS

FIRE MARSHAL WILLIAM ENDS CONDUCTS AN INVESTIGATION OF SUSPICIOUS FACTS.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Mrs. Jennie Heath and Dr. E. H. Dudley Are Subpoenaed for Hearing at the City Hall.

Every effort is being made to solve the mystery which surrounds the fire at the Dr. E. H. Dudley residence early Friday morning. The authorities are convinced that the fire had its origin in the kitchen. Hearings were held behind closed doors in the municipal court room, the fire marshal, William Ends, Henry Klein, chief of the fire department, attorney Charles Pierce, appointed as acting attorney to conduct the examination and the court stenographer, being the only persons admitted besides the witness.

While the evidence presented is not known, owing to the secrecy of the proceedings, it is certain that chief Ends presented the cans of inflammable liquid, the general condition of the house when the fire department arrived, the discovery of the fire and the discovery of the oil in various places through the house, all were doubtless put in evidence. That the fire was given a thorough probing is most certain.

The state fire marshal, after a conference with the local authorities, determined upon an examination and the proceedings were issued for Mrs. Heath, daughter of Dr. Dudley, who returned from a visit in Chicago last evening, and Dr. E. H. Dudley, who was reported to have arrived back home after an auto trip to Kenosha. Whether other witnesses will be summoned later is not known, but it is probable some definite action will be taken after the testimony is all in.

About nine o'clock this morning a fourth subpoena was issued by the court for the appearance of Mrs. Jennie Heath and Dr. E. H. Dudley. Instructions were given to Chief of Police Champion to serve the subpoena on Mrs. Heath first and this was done. Mrs. Heath was found at the Dudley residence at 328 South Main street and on reading the document compelling her appearance at once for the examination, she went to the city hall with a lady friend.

Papers were served on Dr. Dudley at his office in the Haystack block.

The state statutes provide that the examination shall be conducted within two days after the fire and shall be in charge of the fire marshal, being behind closed doors. It was about thirty when Mrs. Heath went into the court room and took the stand. There Mrs. Heath was examined and the fire chief, Chief of Police E. D. Champion and Fire Chief Klein in the court room besides the witness and court reporter.

From that time until after twelve o'clock Mrs. Heath was examined and it is understood that the examination was taken regarding her knowledge of the conditions of the house. It was said by Mrs. Heath on the stand that she left the Dudley residence a week ago today, on the tenth, for a visit with relatives in Broadhead.

On the thirteenth she came through Janesville on train and changed at the station where she had been until last night. According to her testimony, as it was reported, the house was in normal condition when she left. She had a water heater in the kitchen, which had been replaced several times in an adjoining room for drinking water for Mrs. Heath and her family could be heard over three hours.

Chief H. C. Klein made the declaration this morning that if the Dudley residence had not been checked at the time, the house would have been blown to pieces by the explosion of the inflammable liquid, which had a suspicious odor of gasoline. "Had fire reached that boiler full of the liquid, which I believe was gasoline, there would have been a series of explosions that would have spread the flames all through the first floor. Once that had been started, every person in that house or near it would have been in danger," further said the chief.

BIG APPROPRIATIONS COME UP NEXT WEEK IN STATE ASSEMBLY

Assemblyman Kubasta Announces He Will Move Call of House If There Is Not a Full Attendance.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., July 17.—A score of bills of minor importance on the assembly calendar for Friday and Saturday were disposed of by a small attendance of the assembly and the body then adjourned until Monday evening. Just at the close of the session, the byman Kubasta announced that he would call or the house to bring the members back.

The Hambrecht bill to readjust insurance rates in the state with two substitutes, one by Mr. Hambrecht and another by Assemblyman Laursen was laid over until next Wednesday.

The assembly engrossed the Aulenbacher bill for the distribution of motor vehicle license fees back to the counties in proportion to the number of vehicles in each county, after the cost of administration had been deducted. It deferred until Tuesday a bill providing for the separate taxation of agricultural rights and advanced a bill permitting the payment of money for the compensation of cattle slaughtered, when condemned as suffering with bovine tuberculosis.

Assemblyman Harrington's bill to repeal the law for the publication of the primary and election pamphlets was killed, because a senate bill on the subject has already passed the house.

A bill introduced by the committee on education and public welfare providing for a central board of education was killed without debate.

After Assemblyman Carl Hansen had raised the point of no quorum against the Bray bill, prohibiting the burning of soft coal within certain distances of the state capitol, the measure was laid over. The Ackley bill to raise the fees to be paid for the filing of articles of incorporation was up for reconsideration, but was placed on next Tuesday's calendar. An assembly bill relating to the creation of public auditoriums and opera houses was sent to engrossment.

Milwaukee Praises Photospectacle "The Birth of a Nation"

ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN IN "THE BIRTH OF A NATION."

What is proving to be the most astounding moving picture engagement ever played in this city, is the center of attraction at the Davidson theater, Milwaukee, where "The Birth of a Nation," Griffith's tremendous photospectacle, is entering into the second week of its prolonged engagement.

"The Birth of a Nation" will be seen in Milwaukee for an indefinite period. Seats are now on sale for four weeks in advance, and rapidly houses are being filled each performance. Presentations start at 2:15 and 8:10 daily. One of the features of the offering is the musical setting, synchronized and arranged by Joseph Conrad Briel, which is rendered by an orchestra under the direction of Herman Kelle.

Violin Makers.
In the French school of violin making the art was not practiced generally until the eighteenth century. The French were rather more skillful as imitators of the Italians than as originators, and the most famous of these early French makers was Nicolas Lupot, who copied Stradivarius almost exclusively. The German school never got very far in its success, Jacob Stainer standing at the head of the makers of that country.

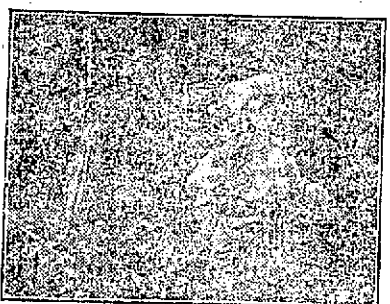

do not hesitate in acknowledging it to be one of the most striking presentations of the history of the reconstruction period ever staged. There is a prologue flashed, showing how the seeds of disunion were sown when the first slaves were brought to the Americas. Then comes the ante-bellum days, when slaves on the plantations of responsible masters were well treated. The spirit of the emancipation proclamation; the declaration of war; the opening engagements; the siege of Vicksburg; the fight from Atlanta; Sherman's march to the sea; the surrender of Lee; and then, the assassination of Lincoln. In swift moving story, follows the tale of reconstruction days—the organization of the Ku Klux Klan, the Freedman's bureau, the control of black authority and carpet-bag rule; the riots in South Carolina; the pitched battles between negro and whites; and, finally, the closing battle in the streets of Piedmont, and the final march of the white knights in full armor.

Griffith exceeded himself as a master of photoplays in this effort. More than 18,000 people and 3,000 horses were employed in taking it. Some scenes of battle were filmed from the top of a sixty foot tower over a five-mile area. The cast includes such actors as Harry Walthall, Mae Marsh, Miriam Cooper, Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, Donald Crisp, Southwester Aiken, Ralph Lewis, Mary Alden, and others. The historical tableaux of famous scenes are most striking. Klux Klan, the Freedman's bureau, the

AT THE APOLLO.

Entire Pickford Family in "Fanchon the Cricket," the latest production of the Famous Players Film Co. on the Paramount Players which will be presented at the Apollo on Monday. attaches an unusual interest because of the fact that it does not only present Mary Pickford, the idol of the screen in the title role, but that the supporting cast also includes Lottie and Jack Pickford, sister and brother of the popular star. This is the first time since the Pickfords have been appearing on the screen that all three have been together in a single subject, and the production, therefore, possesses a unique interest, aside from its great dramatic strength and the charm of the title character.

Written by Georges Sand, one of the greatest novelists in the history of French literature, "Fanchon the Cricket" has lived for generations as one of the most human dramas ever conceived, and it is fair to assume that its interpretation on the screen by Mary Pickford and the superb cast which surrounds her, will forever immortalize this charming story.

Very Pickford, the inimitable, rises to great dramatic heights as the malicious step of a girl who was the scorn and the by-word of the village and who under the subtle influence of love, gradually develops a goodness of disposition and a general bent toward virtuous principles whereby she eventually wins the heart of the man she loves and triumphs gloriously over the envy and hatred of the rustic community of which she has been a despised and rejected member.

John Barrymore in "The Man From Mexico." John Barrymore needs no introduction to the motion picture public, for in his previous film appearances he not only made himself and his talents known to them, but he will be remembered as one of the greatest comedians that ever appeared before the camera.

"The Man From Mexico," which will be presented again next Tuesday at the Apollo, has been recorded in the critical history as one of the greatest comedies of the past two decades. The humorous incidents occur so rapidly that there is scarcely a pause of laughter throughout the entire production. The situations about themselves turned up to John Barrymore's mannerisms, and the personality of the star coincides almost exactly with the character he is called upon to portray.

This character is a light-headed and light-hearted, blustering gentleman, named Fitzhew. Fitzhew gets into and out of more difficulties than can be enumerated, but he attains the purpose of mendacity when he is called upon to explain to his wife the reason for a necessary absence of thirty days—necessary because he has been sentenced to the island for that period of time for disorderly conduct.

That he is compelled to go to Mexico on business for a month, and prides himself on his talent for lying. But at the expiration of the sentence he returns home to find his wife has during his absence, diligently studied the habits and language of Mexico, of which Fitzhew knows nothing. All his former troubles pale into insignificance beside the great dilemma he now finds himself in, and the desperate method he pursues to explain matters to his puzzled wife provide a series of laugh-provoking incidents never before equaled in a film comedy in number or degree.

The comedy ends as all comedies should—with a laugh. Fitzhew eventually overcomes all the humorous difficulties that surround him, and we are left with the supposition that the Man From Mexico will henceforth be truthful.

PLAYGROUND BASEBALL

LEAGUE RUNNING WITH WESTERN NINE IN LEAD

The indoor baseball league, composed of teams from the four playgrounds, is now started in earnest. Each team has played one game and from the present outlook the race will be very interesting. The Webster school is in the lead with one game won and no defeats, while the Washington and Adams are sharing second honors with one defeat and one victory. The Jefferson school follows in the rear with one defeat.

Monday the Webster and Jefferson nine will clash, and on the result depends the leadership of the league. If the Jefferson wins all four playgrounds will be tied in the race, while if the Webster wins they are sure of the leadership.

Unusual numbers have appeared for the swimming lessons held at Goose Island every morning. Friday was the first day which the girls had and over sixty were on hand, when the class opened. This number was far beyond expectations and overshadowed that of last year.

3RD COLOSSAL WEEK!

THE GAZETTE'S MOTORIST PROBLEM DEPARTMENT

(Published Saturdays.)

Motorist Department.—Have a 1914 Ford touring car which has given me satisfaction. While changing the oil on the other day with the rear pump, I noticed that the oil was not being pumped out, and although the pump was in neutral position, this was not the case. However, the speed of the pump was very slow, and I was puzzled as to its reason. Have also noticed that when the car is loaded and runs about twenty miles per hour, the pump will not pump out the oil. I have fully indicated to required 70 pounds pressure. Could there be something wrong in the axle? Any information you can give will be deeply appreciated by an old reader of your valuable column.

P. W. The position of the rear wheel does not indicate anything. The oil pump indicates absence of friction in the bearings between transmission and rear wheels. In the transmission, there is a division in the shaft permitting the oil to flow directly through the coupling. The fact that the gears are in neutral position does not mean no oil is reaching when the motor is running with clutch in. With gears in transmission and one set of gears turning, the tendency is to set in motion the other gears, especially so when the great amount of resistance to prevent such action. As the pump in the rear wheel, you undoubtedly find this due to a defective pumpable rim. Perhaps the pump is not working properly. It has been neglected and worn.

Motorist Department.—Kindly let me know how to time a four-cylinder motor. The position of different valves, high tension magneto. Greatly appreciated. J. B. M.

First, you should determine the order of firing of the cylinders. This may be done by noting the action of the exhaust valves or the intake valves. The order of firing will be 1-2-4-3 or 1-3-4-2. If you time the valves for cylinder No. 1, the valves will be timed in sequence due to the construction of the camshaft. On the average four-cylinder motor, the intake valve should be timed to open approximately 45 degrees before bottom center and close approximately 15 degrees after top center.

The intake valve should be timed to open approximately twelve degrees before top center and close approximately thirty degrees after top center. Usually you will find marks on the flywheel indicating these positions. Different types of motors differ in the timing of the valves. The amount of lead to the valves being more or less determined by the design of the motor.

In timing the ignition you should place piston of No. 1 cylinder at top of water of compression. With spark lever retarded, circuit breaker or magneto should be set to break. The order of the high tension distributor will point to a cylinder of distributor indicating No. 1 cylinder. If the order of firing of motor is 1-2-4-3 and direction of rotation of distributor is clockwise, the secondary wires should be attached from distributor in the order—namely, 1-3-4-2.

Motorist Department.—My motor has been thoroughly overhauled in March. It was running as well as in good condition. Pistons, rings, etc., all repaired good. Carburetor was looked over by the manufacturer, magneto by the Bosch people, including timing.

I now find the following faults: At an average of twelve to fifteen miles, even on the level, but more so on a slight grade, such as we may find in city blocks, the motor seems to labor or what is termed "buck". She holds her own, does not lose power, but you cannot get increased speed, and it is necessary to retard speed considerably. She runs about at less than twelve miles on level roads—trouble seems to be on twelve to fifteen miles. The same holds on very much steeper ones, can make about twenty miles, and she will keep right along, finishing up at a high rate of speed as desired. Going down hill with the throttle open, she will run twelve miles per hour the difficulty is in slowing down. Seems to buck. The motor was breaking against itself. Turning off the gas completely or increasing it, does not help with this trouble.

The motor is smoking considerably, and is using up fully three pints of oil in a hundred miles. The thin winter oil I discarded, and am using the heavier summer oil, which is scheduled for the motor. Would I accomplish anything by using even a heavier oil? I followed directions by keeping oil even with oil-cock level. I am told that this helps to make it smoke.

Dry Batteries for starting seem to be trouble some this year. Would you advise using a storage battery, which I understand must be re-charged each month? Is there any objection attaching to the motor to a storage battery used for lighting which gets its power from dynamo on car? The pump which carries the oil to glass on dashboard was thoroughly cleaned, but it pumps oil when the crank case is full, but after a run of car is stopped for a short time, it resumes pumping when the car again starts in action, and after a while I carry my gas throttle at a notch which runs the car at about twelve miles per hour on the level. In going down grades I shut off gas completely with throttle and retard spark. Is there any objection to allowing a motor to run this way while overhauling or putting gears in? The first is tiresome, and it is difficult to get gears back again at foot of hill.

Thanking you for your answers, I remain, W. D. R. I think what you have stated it appears that the ignition is timed too early. See that the spark does not occur before top center when retarded. It would do no harm to try a heavier grade of oil. Quite often this will improve the running of motors which have experienced considerable service.

The storage battery is preferable to dry cells for ignition purposes. You should be careful, however, to note the capacity of the battery used. The average ignition coil will not sound a large storage battery. The average six-volt storage battery for lighting purposes should answer the purpose well.

The check valve in the oiling system probably sticks. Sometimes a spring is too strong for suction to release the valve. A careful inspection and slight adjustment of these parts should remedy the trouble.

In coasting down hill without clutching, a surplus amount of oil is sent up to work into the combustion chamber and cause misfiring for a time. Some motors, however, are not affected in this manner. Before shifting from a higher to a lower gear, the motor should be accelerated with clutch engaged. Then shift in the usual manner.

Motorist Department.—I have a 1915 Ford. I have had trouble with excessive amount of oil in No. 1 cylinder and a dirty spark plug, which had to be cleaned every thirty miles. Other three plugs have been perfect. I clean since began using car service months ago. Have just had new piston rings and valves ground, but

HELPFUL HINTS.
It is not an easy matter to insert a gasket between two flanges which cannot be separated any great distance without tearing the gasket before it is in the proper position. If the gasket is placed in a cardboard folder the task becomes mere child's play; for the crease in the folder can be inserted and pushed into the small space until the gasket is in proper position and the folder then withdrawn.
When making motor adjustments it is usually necessary to exercise a little patience in order to get the best results, for reason that the effects of adjustments are not always instantly apparent. In carburetor adjustments, for instance, the motor must be given a little time to feel the changes made, and the results obtained immediately following the turn of a needle valve or an air valve spring may be misleading.
The practice of driving in ruts will wear out a tire faster than any other individual bad habit. Obviously, this method of driving exposes to wear the part of the tire least calculated to bear it. The main strength of the tire lies in the tread. The side walls are made comparatively thin, because wear on them is not expected; and yet, by running in ruts, that or exactly where the hardest wear falls.
One good way to insert a heavy valve spring is to compress it in a vise and tie it with twine. After it is in place and the cotter key has been inserted, it is a simple matter to cut the twine.
After a car has been in service for a year or two it is well to remove the muffler, and after taking same apart scrape out the carbon deposit.

have same trouble after running about thirty miles.
Can you suggest what the trouble is?
If the cylinder is true and the piston and rings fit tight, there is no reason why this particular cylinder should be flooded with oil. It is possible that the cylinder is out of true and in this case new rings would overcome the trouble. Sometimes a faulty plug or coil affecting the ignition in that particular cylinder will cause an undue amount of oil to syphon into that particular cylinder. You might try shifting the coil units and plugs to another cylinder. Troubles shifts to another cylinder. If this trouble has been chronic from the start you will probably be able to trace it back to the irregularity in size of the piston and cylinder. If you have occasion to remove the piston and cylinder be carefully calibrated for any irregularities in dimensions. You should also note that the cylinder head is securely fastened, permitting no compression leaks. As stated before, an occasional misfiring of the cylinders, due to whatever will syphon an undue amount of oil into the combustion chamber.

Motorist Department.—As I have been seeing some useful things concerning autos, I would like to have you tell me what causes my motor to skip. I have a Schenck carburetor and a Remy magneto, and when running at high less than fifteen miles per hour, it skips, but runs all right on first and second. I have four new spark plugs and good wires. It runs all right on batteries and does not skip, but when on magneto it will skip. I will be very glad if you could help me out on this. I remain, P. L. M.

The trouble seems to be with the magneto. You will probably find that the circuit breaker needs cleaning and adjusting, and perhaps a little lubrication. You seem to have trouble only at slow speeds. Perhaps the points are worn too far apart and need adjusting, or perhaps the parts stick and will actuate only at a higher rate of speed. If the magneto is of an old type you may find it necessary to have the magnets remagnetized. When the magnets are weak a strong spark will not be generated, except at higher engine speeds.

Motorist Department.—There are three 1913 Fords in this vicinity that have been overhauled in garages here to stop a knock or pound which sounds like a loose connecting rod bearing. All bearings have been tightened and still the knock is there. They say they have a number of 1913 Fords that they cannot stop the knock in. (The Ford agency garage here). They say it might be a cylinder worn egg shape. Main bearings have been tightened. Would like to know if there is any reason why a 1913 should develop a knock like this after being run for some time, as they say it will.

Under the circumstances it would seem advisable that you get in direct touch with the service department of the manufacturer.
It is assumed that the experienced mechanic have done everything possible within their knowledge to locate the trouble. A knock of this kind, which develops in this particular manner, has been discovered before this time by the makers. Without doubt they can suggest an immediate remedy.
Might suggest, however, that crankshaft be carefully placed in alignment with the cylinder bores so that all pistons and connecting rods work at direct and true right angles shaft. If any one connecting rod bearing is not fitted true a side slap in piston at wrist pin will cause knock as crankshaft rotates.

Motorist Department.—What should one do with a cone clutch to prevent a car starting with a jerk? R. L. Unless the clutch leather is badly worn the trouble can be remedied by softening the leather with an application of neatsfoot or castor oil. The best time to apply the oil is at night, or at some time when the car is not to be used for several hours. After removing the floor boards hold the clutch out in some way and apply the oil liberally. As the clutch is held disengaged from the flywheel the oil will have an opportunity to soak into the pores of the leather.
If you find the leather worn down it would be advisable to have a new leather installed. Sometimes a shoulder is worn in the clutch leather by contact with the edge of the flywheel and in such a case the clutch should be removed and relined or the face turned down in a lathe.

THE WORLD'S LOWEST PRICED KNIGHT MOTORED CAR

This announces, without doubt, the greatest achievement in the history of automobile business.

A Knight motored car for $1095!

The Knight is the automobile motor that revolutionized the entire motor car industry of Europe.

It is the motor that is used by practically all the leading European automobile manufacturers.

The Daimler of England, the Panhard of France, the Mercedes of Germany, the Minerva of Belgium are all equipped with the famous Knight motor.

And these are the motor cars that cost from $4000 to $8000 each!

Practically every titled family in Europe owns one or more Knight motor cars.

The Knight motor is acknowledged to be the most highly developed automobile motor on the market.

This motor differs from other motors in that where all others deteriorate with use, this improves; to all others carbon is harmful, here it is beneficial; size for size it has more power.

It has no noisy poppet valves; no noisy cams; no uncertain valve springs; no troublesome valves to grind; practically no wearing parts.

It is the ideal automobile motor.

The Willys-Knight has the same advantages and is just as efficient as those costly European Knight cars.

Yet it costs but $1095.

As we build more cars in a single week than most European manufacturers build in a whole year, we are able to utilize every modern manufacturing economy.

That is why our price is so much less.

The Willys-Knight, in our opinion, has the least vibration and is the smoothest, quietest, and most economical car made.

Have your demonstration at once.

Immediate deliveries.

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH Y. CAMERON

THE CHILD OF THE LONG AGO.

It makes my heart ache sometimes when I think how few pleasures I had in my childhood. A woman said to me the other day, "I often wish I could be that little girl of the long ago and give her a few of the pleasures that the children round me have so many of and appreciate so little."

That is a perfectly natural and justifiable sentiment and one which I understand middle-aged people feel. But I don't think it is wise to dwell on it.

Isn't it strange that some of us don't go a step farther than just feeling sorry for ourselves and give them the pleasures of the long ago, and enjoy them in their places and give them happiness?

Another way to settle the score. There are plenty of children in the world today to whom such pleasures as those were to most children in the simpler days. They may not be among the friends of our intimate friends, but they are all about us and are not hard to find. As it seems somehow as if the little wistful faces that haunt our memory would brighten if they saw these other children made happy.

And yet how seldom it occurs to anyone to settle the score in that way. One of the biggest lessons in life, it seems to me, is to be taught kindness and sympathy for the hard experiences of others by our own troubles and temptations.

What is the Use of Sorrow if We Don't Learn? They don't teach us to understand and sympathize. They don't teach us to be people who can pass through them without having their sympathies broadened or their understanding deepened.

Our sympathy is never very deep unless founded on our own feelings. As one has said, "We pity, but do not enter into the grief we have never felt."

But, of course, it is inevitable for the average person, without a spiritual education, but to be unable to enter into the griefs we have once experienced merely because that time is past is quite another thing.

Spiritual Defectives. We call the child who forgets one lesson as fast as he learns the next a spiritual defective. And people who forget one lesson in sympathy as soon as they learn a woman who is the absorbed and devoted mother of four children.

And yet of any other trouble, even those of which her own experience should have made her sympathetic, she will probably say, "Isn't that too bad? Did I tell you what Jane said yesterday?" or "Listen, is that the baby?"

Painful experience is the rough, bitter shell, sympathy is the sweet kernel. Are we not foolish when we refuse the sweet after we have been forced to accept the bitter?

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-six years old and I am working between twenty-five and thirty hours a week. I do not know his exact age.

When I started to work for him, three years ago, he was not doing much. He had a business, but it was almost a failure. I am a very good business woman.

I took care of his business and made things pay. The man I am working for is very attractive and good natured, but he does not know how to work.

He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him. I love him and he loves me. He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him.

He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him. I love him and he loves me. He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him.

He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him. I love him and he loves me. He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him.

He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him. I love him and he loves me. He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him.

He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him. I love him and he loves me. He has been so good to me that I feel I owe him.

Household Hints

Compote of Melons.—Peel melons, cut them into slices, remove seeds, trim them and put into sauce pan with enough syrup to cover; add small piece of cinnamon and let them simmer over slow fire for a quarter of an hour, then remove sauce pan from fire and let contents remain for several hours in the syrup. Arrange slices in a compote dish, pour syrup over and serve.

Compote of Gooseberries.—Top and tail one quart of gooseberries, drop into boiling water two minutes, drain and let them three minutes in cold water containing a tablespoon sugar to restore their color; then drain quite dry. Boil for ten minutes a syrup made from a pint of sugar and water; drop in the gooseberries and boil them gently until just tender—about ten to fifteen minutes. Pour into a glass dish. Thin shreds of lemon peel boiled with the syrup improves the compote.

FOR THE GARDEN. If one has no arbor or pergola in the garden, a good substitute is a Japanese paper beach parasol. The handle, which needs to be lengthened with another piece of bamboo splined in, is simply stuck in the ground. One is large enough to shade a group of people, and looks very pretty.

FOR THE PICNIC. Roll a sheet of asbestos in cone shape and set small kind securely in camp fire. In it may be put potatoes, apples and lots of different things. A good-sized cone will take the place of several utensils.

LICE ON POULTRY. A sure way to get rid of lice on poultry is to get about a pint of stock dip, swirl about three gallons of water and add dip according to directions.

Now make a much stronger solution and spray the coop and roosts and keep the coop clean and following these directions about two or three times a summer, you can keep chickens free from lice.

THE TABLE. Fried Tomatoes.—Green tomatoes are very nice fried for breakfast or lunch. Select smooth tomatoes which are quite green. Cut them into thin slices, then dip into beaten eggs and cracker crumbs or fine corn meal. Fry in boiling fat. A poached egg on each slice makes quite a substantial breakfast. Green cucumbers are also very good by paring and slicing the long way and frying the same as tomatoes.

Buster Brown Cake.—Cream together two cups medium size sugar, one-half cup shortening, two eggs, one-half cup white flour, one cup milk with one teaspoon soda, two cups flour sifted three times, pinch of salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Bake in two layers. Frosting: Boil one cup granulated sugar with one-fourth cup water till it spins a thread, pour on whipped white slowly, beating all the time. Put in one-half cup chopped raisins, mix well, put between and on top of cake.

Raisin Cream Pie.—Make a thickening the same as for a cream pie with milk, cornstarch, eggs and sugar. Then stew about a cupful of the red seedless raisins in a very little water. Strain out and add to the thickening. Add to the already baked crust, frost with the white of the egg, sprinkle with cocoanut and set in oven to brown.

COOL SUMMER DRINK. Take one pound finely powdered loaf sugar, one ounce citric acid, twenty drops of essence of lemon. Mix immediately, and keep very dry.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of this, stirred briskly in a glass of water, will make a good glass of lemonade.

SEES LITTLE CHANCE OF AVOIDING BREAK

MILWAUKEE, July 17.—(By Associated Press.)—SAYS ISSUE IN GERMAN SITUATION IS CLEAR.

SCORES VOTE THREATS

Consolidation of German Vote Against Government Will Make Wilson's Protection Unanimous.
(By Miss B. Fisher.)

Milwaukee, July 17.—The depths of American feeling have been wrought upon by the German note. It leaves the main question raised by the United States unclouded, and with apparent deliberation, attempts to bring the issue and divert attention from the fact that this country is the only one in the world that has not yet taken the killing of over 100,000 American citizens who were passengers upon the Lusitania and is a crime which is being committed by the German government. The note also states that the German government will expect anything but an emphatic and sturdy maintenance of American rights, and it is necessary to prompt severance of all relations with Germany.

Within the past month I have crossed and recrossed Iowa, Illinois, and Nebraska three or four times, and have had an opportunity to see traveling companions and read the newspapers, and outside of a few stony politicians, like Bryan, I have not met a single person who is not a defender of Germany's policy except the "German-Americans" and who misrepresent a considerable part of the German population as they are much more patriotic and more intelligent than they are. As a rule, other people, English, French, Poles, Scandinavians, Latins, Dutch, and Americans are all in the same boat. They hold no unexcused bias in the matter of Germany's policy, but they are very much in earnest in wanting this government to speak in no uncertain tone to Germany.

RENOT, FRANCE'S MASTER OF FINANCE, IS FIGHTING WAR ON FINANCIAL SIDE

Since the beginning of the present war, Alexandre Ribot, French minister of finance, has borne upon his shoulders the burden of responsibility of furnishing all the money and, above all, the supplies needed for the operations on land and sea for the defense of France. He is a financier of wonderful skill and resource, and is regarded as one of the greatest experts authorities on matters pertaining to finance.

very quiet until their president spoke for the honor of the United States, and even with the provocation of the Lusitania incident, they have fallen into no extravagances. It will, however, be a great mistake to credit their patience and silence to indifference or timidity. The near future will show the policy of the government as wholly unyielding in its condemnation of the destruction of American lives on the Lusitania and the government will represent the American people who will back it up. They are not timorous, but they will be found very much in earnest. They desire peace, but no cringing, ignominious peace will do.

A Prediction Comes True.
In a letter to this paper, dated the 16th of last January, I wrote as follows, after commenting favorably upon the governor's message:—
"The governor is probably fortunate that many of those who would be, or are, most extreme in their demands for the breaking of all the Progressive crockery at once, were not his early supporters. They really had no faith in his success until he had won. They were of no help to him until he did it, and they will not be helpful now."
This is an early recognition of the dangers into which Governor Philipp has landed. The perils are no longer vague, they are very present and comprehensive. It seemed altogether likely, from the outset, that the class to which my January remarks referred would want to raise all the ruck possible in order to pick up a few things they wanted, while the melee engaged general attention, has been hard for Governor Philipp to realize that he is not only a minority governor, but distinguished in that respect above all his predecessors, by the small vote he polled. He might have represented the people and secured their backing if he had made an issue or two in their favor. Instead, he has many times in the fire that nobody has time to keep track of them. He has issued many a long and high sounding pronouncement, that nobody reads them or can compass the field they traverse. The people wanted relief from high taxes, but they will not get it, and some that nobody grasps it, and few will ever try to do so. He had an opportunity by overlooking his gun.

Philipp's One Chance.
There is no unkindness to Governor Philipp in saying that it became apparent very early in his administration, and six months have demonstrated that liquor and other selfish interests have played him into the hole and helped his trained Progressive opponents to his defeat. He can begin the fight now that he has been started in the place of a convention, and he has many scalps between now and adjournment or else he will be trimmed to a finish. The only chance Mr. Philipp had for public support was to deserve it, and to deserve it he had a bitter fight, a high order of courage and generalship. So far he has had courage, but that has had both its friends and its enemies. He has been turned, and he will veto every appropriation bill that has not been to the core. It needs to hang up the state's whole machinery until an extra session can meet, after the time has been wasted in the "horse-shed" their wreck of all hope of substantial relief for the people, from extraneous expenses and governmental dissipation. He must pull himself together, make an intelligent, stubborn stand for economy or he will be the worst whipped man in the state, and he will be in these times of political bantling.

"Made in Calgary."
The United States consul at Calgary, Canada, reports that the "Made in Calgary" exhibition held there in June was not a success, but he adds that the exhibition of "Made in Calgary" and the wider slogan "Made in Canada" is more intense, and is having a perceptible influence on the import trade. Imports from the United States into Canada reveal a marked decrease.

Canada is not a manufacturing country and most of its manufactures must be imported, which accounts for the failure of the exhibition mentioned. So far as American city industries are concerned, the cry "Patrons Home" means anything, every city must be sufficient unto itself, and nothing of anybody else. The logic of this means, inevitably, that such a city will sell nothing for commerce in exchange. But the fellows who think it smart to put up a tariff against Canada can see what the cry "Made in Canada" will do. Wisconsin has many Canadian customers. There's a lesson for us in this Canadian movement.

Hard Times for Cities.
Many cities are having increasing difficulty in paying money on their bonds at rates that do not yield the purchaser over 4 1/2%. New York and other large cities have had trouble to market 4 1/2% bonds at any premium at all. One reason for this growing distrust of municipal bonds is that the society is deteriorating with the increase of municipal ownership. The recent United States Census report on wealth, debt, and taxation in 1913, shows the entire net public indebtedness of the country, national, state county, and municipal was $2,884,883,000, was municipal $1,247,779, for each man, woman and child in the United States, $42.77 over two-thirds of which was municipal debt. Still tax-payers are steadily. Since 1913, the government has added $100,000,000 of a dollar a head and every other branch of government has been helping to increase the burden. Municipal debt load, material, in the intervening two years, and their credit by taking over lighting and other municipal plants. The tax-payers are not to be blamed for this. It was not to be paid when cities were unable to borrow at less than 5%, because lenders want pay in accordance with the increasing risk.

TUNNELS COMPLETED FOR TURK RAILROAD

Harest Piece of Work on Famous Bagdad Railway Is Finished by German Engineers.
(By Associated Press.)

Constantinople, July 17.—The announcement that the two drives of the Bagdad tunnel met today marks the practical completion of the toughest piece of work on the famous Bagdad railway, and of another instance of the work that German engineers are carrying out for the economic development of Turkey. The tunnel is cut through solid granite of such a hard character that about 1500 steel drills were used up daily in each of the two headings. On the southeast side, it was necessary to transport the huge boilers for the air compressors in sections, with dozens of oxen to draw each load over the primitive mountain gauge railway, some twenty miles long, with many curves and steep backs, had to be built for the purpose of bringing up supplies.

(Only a little more than three miles—but, owing to the character of the rock and other obstacles, it required four years to cut it. It passes through the Amanus Mountains, which extend northwards along the coast of Syria, separating the table-land around Aleppo from the low plain of Cilicia. It will connect the Bay of Alexandretta with points in Mesopotamia considerably to the east of the Euphrates river.

As building northwest along the Taurus from Bagdad is proceeding, notwithstanding the war, it is expected that the entire road will be finished before the end of 1916, or at the latest early in 1917. From the Bay of Alexandretta to Constantinople, connection has not yet been established, the tunnel through the Taurus mountains not yet having been completed. It is of about the same length as the Bagdad tunnel and will be finished next year. It is expected that the peace shall by that time have been established through tickets from Berlin to Bagdad will be on sale.

TABULATED REPORT SHOWS A FOOD SHORTAGE IN THE CANAL DISTRICT

Panama, July 17.—An investigation ordered by Lieut. Col. Chester Harding, U. S. A., acting governor of the Panama Canal, has developed the information that no more than thirty days' supplies of foodstuffs are available in the Republic of Panama and the Canal Zone. The results of the investigation have been compiled into a lengthy tabulated report, which has been sent to the War Department at Washington.

Most of the available supplies are stored in the two cities of Panama and Colon. The stores available in the provincial districts are estimated sufficient for the interior population for perhaps six months. This is due to the fact that the merchants in the interior, but that they would not be immediately available, owing to the difficulties of transportation to the canal cities.

SCULPTORS IN GERMAN ARMY DECORATE THEIR TRENCHES WITH FIGURES

Cologne, July 17.—A letter from a German soldier in France describes a company in which amateur or professional sculptors, as well as some landscape painters, are present in large numbers. The work which the company has been doing has been taken on an extraordinary decorative appearance.

The same sculptors have provided monuments for the graves of their fallen comrades, who are buried in a little cemetery some distance back of the trench. The latter are veritable flower gardens in which the art of the landscape artist has had full sway.

GERMANS HAVE MEANS OF MAKING SOAP FROM SUGAR INSTEAD OF OIL

Hamburg, July 17.—The discovery is announced of a method of making soap from sugar, instead of from oil, which is scarce. In the past it has been possible to use sugar only in soaps that had little value, for the soap produced is not only fine and delicate, but it acts as efficiently in self water according to a fact that may make the soap valuable for the navy.

DEATH STRUGGLE IN THE AIR BETWEEN RIVAL WAR AIRCRAFT.

London, July 17.—The graphic story of a fight to the death three thousand feet in the air is told by a British soldier, returned from duty in Northern France. Official despatches of a German aviator. The real story arrived today.

"It happened right above our camp, the soldier said. 'Anti-aircraft guns were barking right and left. We looked upward and saw a tiny speck which later proved to be a German taube. A few moments later we saw two of our own aviators who rushed away dropping bombs as they fled.'"

ZEPPELIN HUNTING A DANGEROUS TASK

London, July 17.—Zeppelin hunting is not so easy as it seems to the landgoing critics, who think it is a careless task that any Zeppelin has been allowed to sail over English soil and away.

The first message of a raid may come from a point in Holland or Flanders or some outlying English coast station. It gives the time, the direction, the general direction and the estimated height of the airship. On receipt of this at the aerodrome, the scout planes start out.

Koenigsberg, July 17.—Every town of importance in East Prussia has suffered at the devastating hand of the Russians has decided to incorporate a municipal garden section in its plans for rebuilding.

SEVENTY-THREE BRITISH VESSELS COMPIRE LOSS

London, July 17.—The Admiralty report shows that from the time the submarine blockade was declared on February 15 until June 20, the Germans were able to sink seventy-three British merchant ships. In the last week reported, seven ships were lost. The same week, 1,247 average steamers of all nationalities arrived at and departed from British ports.

REPEATED BOMBARDMENTS OF RHEIMS COMPLETES CATHEDRAL DESTRUCTION

Boulogne, July 17.—The recent repeated bombardments of Rheims have completed the destruction of the cathedral, and practically nothing is left of the building but the silhouette. The state has collected all tapestries, fragments of statues and windows broken by the bombardments and deposited them in a place of safety.

Origin of the Japanese.

It is impossible to be precise on the subject of the origin of the Japanese people. They may have come originally from China or Malaysia, or from any of a dozen other regions. It is certain that they are an amalgamation of several races, but beyond this all is guesswork.

Not Generally Understood.
There is nothing impossible about a white blackbird or a brown black bear. In this connection "black" means a variety, not a color. The yellow sea is not yellow, and the white mountains are not white.

Gazette Want Ads Pay whether you use them or read them

Gazette, City.

Gentlemen: A short time ago we had some dining room chairs we wanted to sell. It did not take us long to decide how we would find some one who wanted them because we had used the Want Ads before and knew the results. So along the first of April we put in the following ad:

FOR SALE—6 oak, leather-seated dining chairs cheap. Call old phone 1688, or 696 Lincoln St., evenings, or Saturday afternoon.

Do Want Ads bring results? Did we sell the chairs? We had at least ten or fifteen calls. Of course, the chairs were not just the kind that some of them wanted, yet they were just the thing for most of them and we sold them and could have sold them several times.

If anyone has something to sell I advise them to use the Want Ads. We have used them several times and know the results.

Very truly,

MILLIE BRINKER.

Whistle for a Dog. Any dog can be taught to answer a certain sound, and as it is far easier to produce a uniform sound on a metal whistle than by means of your lips, why not buy a whistle and train your dog to answer it. FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 17, 1875—A cloudy and cool day brought to the city almost the entire population of the country. Teams by the score thronged the streets the whole day long.

Yesterday, while taking a trip through the country, Mr. Colvin made an examination of the wheat fields and found the grain in excellent condition. It is out of the way of bugs and rust, and the report that the crop will be a moderate one, started by croakers is humbug. The hay crop is safe, rye good and being harvested, barley never better, oats heavy and if the wheat should turn out to be of little value there will be an abundance of other products, so there will not be much of a loss.

The fire department of this city will hold their first annual picnic at 20th inst. The boys have arranged an excellent program, one in which there will be a feast of reason, as well as a feast of soul. Aside from the music, oration and picnic, there will be a series of games and lots of sport, such as have never been indulged in here before. The program was prepared with special reference to amusement of the highest order, such as all, who attend will richly enjoy.

We regret to announce that Mr. John J. Bear, of the town of Janesville, died at an early hour this morning. He had been unwell for two or three months.

Boston, July 12.—The case of the American Express robbery and attempted murder of the messenger, at Albany a few years ago is revived by the story that the skeleton of John J. Filkins, the supposed robber, has been found in one of the sewers, leading from the Clinton prison.
